1. The Federacion Estudiantil Universitaria (FEU-University Student Federation) has held several secret meetings since the resignation of German MORE. He resigned under great pressure and not so willingly as was made to appear by some newspapers. Since he remains as president of the School of Education, he continues to be a member of the FEU directorate, although some have urged him to resign from this post also. Benigno ARVESU, who has been ratified as the new president, is considered to be much more acceptable by the other FEU members.¹
 2. The University of Habana police, in order to assure that only professors and students enter the university grounds, have been asking that identification cards be shown. Very few students appeared at the University during the early part of April, since many had left on vacation.
